Introduction

Dear excited trader,

Thank you for downloading your NEW & UPDATED free copy of:

Whether you're new to trading or you're an advanced chartist – we all have the same expectations when it comes to choosing a charting platform.

It must be online, fast, safe, customizable and user friendly.

And you know what – it should be free!

With the high competition of charting platforms available world-wide, each company must ensure they have free, live streaming, cutting edge, secure and easy to use platforms to offer their customers and clients at the very least – top-notch service.

I've used many charting platforms since 2003. From London School of Investments, Amibroker, MetaStock, ProTrader, Cycle Trends, IG Markets, Oanda, MetaTrader, Sword Fish... You name it.

But there is ONE free charting platform, which has become my absolute favourite over the years, which I am beyond excited to introduce to you right now.

In this beginner's guide, I'll go over everything you need to know, to help you start using the platform with ease.

It's called TradingView...

Trade well, live free.

Founder, MATI Trader

Elevator Pitch

What TradingView is

TradingView (est. 2012) is a world leading, cutting-edge FREE online visualisation financial charting platform for beginners up to the most advanced professional traders, with over 10 million subscribers.

The platform has direct access to unlimited live streaming data from stocks, futures, bonds, indices, Forex, commodities, ETFs and even crypto-currencies.

It allows you to customise your watch lists, back test your strategies, share, publish or enjoy live and active trading ideas, signals and tutorials through the platform or directly to your Twitter and Stock Twits feed.

With TradingView you'll be able to enjoy this free charting phenomena across either your web browser, Android or Apple iOS devices.

The Downside

It's important to note that TradingView is not integrated with most brokers. This means you'll need to have two platforms at all times to place a trade.

However, this might change in the near future as TradingView is already associated with some of the world's leading brokers such as, Oanda and FXCM.

Start to chart, learn and share trading ideas

TradingView has been in the making for the last 20 years, and so you'll find that it offers more services than what is mentioned in this short guide.

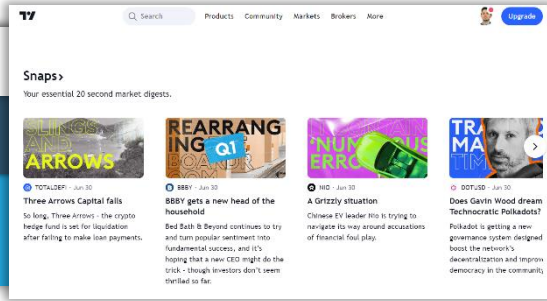

When you go to their website, you'll see a whole range of trading real-time data, information, analyses tutorials coming from both professional, corporate as well as trading individuals...

Here's what you'll see as when you enter their website.

PLEASE NOTE: If you'd like to read about the charting platform, please skip to the next part of the guide.

Positions

Visualise your trading positions

This button allows you to visually place a Long Position, Short Position, Price range as well as calculate your risk-to-reward ratio simultaneously.

You'll save time as a trader, rather than having to use your calculator each time.

I've personally never seen this option available on any charting or trading platform other than with TradingView.

If you come across one, please let me know by emailing info@timonandmati.com.

Below you'll see a trade idea I published with the position tool in use.

PLEASE NOTE:

I was not compensated by TradingView to write this PDF.

TradingView is a fantastic platform for not only MATI Trader members but for anyone who would like to learn and make a success from the markets.

I wrote this e-book because I would've wanted someone to do the same for me when I started trading in 2003.

Remember these words into 2020 and beyond:

"If not me, who?" "If not now, when?"

Thank you for your support!
